

AN INCENTIVE & CONFERENCE DELEGATE'S DREAM AWAITS AT THE NEW MULTI-MILLION GRAND JERSEY

~ THE ISLAND'S NEWEST & MOST SPECTACULAR 5* HOTEL AND EVENT FACILITY ~

The much anticipated multi-million pound renovation and re-launch of The Grand Jersey completes this summer. Whether you want you delegates creating new orangatang enclosures at Durrell Wildlife Park, racing against the clock and across the island to compete in your own bespoke Jersey Trophy company challenge, boarding a luxury yacht and heading to one of the UK's only fully pedestrianised islands, or even treating them to a 'money can't buy' masterclass with one of the world's most famous chefs – Albert Roux – The Grand, the island's newest 5* hotel has it all, and at VAT free prices.

Easily accessible via numerous daily flights from the UK and Europe, all of which have the hotel's chauffeur service on standby, with 122 stunning interior designed bedrooms most of which have spectacular sea views, a new luxurious Elemis spa and pool due to launch in July, the islands only private cinema and a number of exclusive dining and drinking options, The Grand is committed to offering all guests the most memorable of experiences, and this is no more evident than when entering the properties new million pound meeting and event space.

The newly created Park Suites are a contemporary range of meeting and event rooms, individually designed by critically acclaimed interior designers Trevellion and featuring lashings of natural light and bespoke artwork throughout. Whether you are looking for a boardroom for two or theatre style for one hundred and two, The Grand Jersey is now undoubtedly the natural conference and events venue of choice, on an international as well as national and local level. Boasting a separate entrance with a private meet and greet area, two private break-out areas and a full concierge service from booking stage right through to a follow-up service after your event, this unique and flexible selection of rooms are luxuriously appointed with state of the art facilities, providing the ideal setting and atmosphere for any type of meeting or event.

In an age when the demand for eco-friendly breaks and evidence of corporate social responsibility is growing, meeting and incentive organisers will be glad to know that The Grand works hard to support the geographical character of each hotel's individual locality – its environment, culture, aesthetics and the well being of its citizens – working primarily with local food suppliers, using the expertise of local event companies such as 3D potential and supporting key local causes such as the Durrell Wildlife Trust and The Eric Young Orchid Foundation.

This isn't a hotel which wants to keep its guests contained between its 4-walls, but instead proactively encourages them to have an experience that incorporates the 'outside world'. It is this philosophy which means The Grand enables experiences, rather than just overnight stays and generic events. A host of team building options are of course also on offer, incorporating the very best that Jersey has to offer.

Be it golfing or wine blending, body-boarding or blo-karting, The Grand Jersey offers a bespoke personalized service, arranging any activity to suit the timeframe of each client.

For those organisers looking to treat their delegates or guests to a more relaxing experience, why not book them into the new million pound luxury in-house spa, launching July 2008. With indulgent face and body treatments by Elemis and hair and scalp treatments by ghd – the only place they are available in Jersey – it really is the only choice for meetings, conference and incentives organisers who are really looking to spoil.

The Grand Jersey is set to become one of the finest, most talked about 5* properties on the island, following its multi-million pound renovation and re-launch in summer 2008. Experience the renaissance of the infamous Grand Jersey Hotel.

Notes to Editors:

Acquired in April 2006, by Hilwood Resorts – the UK’s most exciting new privately owned 5*hotel group – the owners are partnering with the most prestigious experts in their field, to ensure The Grand becomes a property that Jersey locals and overseas guests alike are proud, privileged and (above all) excited to visit. Ultimately a destination dedicated to delivering luxury, fun and relaxation, whether you’re on a family break, romantic retreat or corporate away day.
